NOTIFICATION

The Centre for Gerontological Studies under Kerala University of Health Sciences is organizing a two-day workshop cum training program titled “Ageing and Public Health” aiming to form a KUHS network to address public health issues related to demographic ageing. The applications are invited from those faculty members with valid FEP ID, from all the disciplines of KUHS who have track record of having research/ field activities/ training (former two qualities are more desirable) in the field of Geriatric Care.

National & International speakers are engaged in the workshop to guide and enable the participants to achieve the goal of the workshop. The participants will be assisted by moderators to identify key areas for research and service development in the field of gerontology and geriatric care.

Those who are interested can register to participate in the programme through the entry form provided below. Number of participants are limited to 25. The last date for Registration is 2nd June 2021. The selection of the participants will be done by the University as per the criteria mentioned above. The date of conduct of the programme will be announced later through the KUHS website.
